ANNOUNCING THE ARRIVAL OF CIVILITY AT WORK MAGAZINE®

September 15, 2012 – Winnipeg, MB – Civility at Work Magazine® hits online newsstands today, bringing a fresh perspective on the business community and how everyone interacts in it. The magazine is a practical online magazine that offers business solutions for imbedding and maintaining civility in workplaces and organizations, no matter the size. Civility at Work Magazine® (Civility Magazine) represents a mindset shift in terms of how forward-thinking business professionals are managing the many changes impacting business today.

“There is tremendous power in civility,” says Tara Crawford, editor, Civility Magazine. “And when the expected and respected guidelines for treating each other with kindness and consideration are structured and followed in our workplaces, there is a measurable impact to the quality of our performance, the bottom line business metrics, and to the quality of our lives and relationships.”

Civility Magazine, realized by Civility Experts Worldwide, is a quarterly magazine which aims to provide readers with the knowledge of how civility and incivility can affect the bottom line, provide readers with the tools to determine the level of civility at their place of employment and even challenge readers to evaluate themselves to determine if they possess integrity and what it means if they do not.
